ETAWA PRESENTS

Narelda Jacobs: Narelda Jacobs has been a journalist at Network Ten for 16 years and is the presenter of Perth's Ten Eyewitness News at 5.

Narelda loves her home town of Perth, with the world's warmest people and best lifestyle. Her on air profile has given Narelda the opportunity to get involved in countless community events.

Narelda's a patron of the Motor Neurone Disease Assoc WA. She's an Ambassador for the David Wirrpanda Foundation, Breast Cancer Care WA & the Disability Services Commission. In 2011 she was 1 of 13 WA women who trekked Kokoda to raise money for Breast Cancer Care WA.

Josephine Wilson: Josephine Wilson's second novel, Extinctions, won the 2017 Miles Franklin Literary Award and the Colin Roderick Award after winning the inaugural Dorothy Hewett Award in manuscript form. Extinctions was also shortlisted for the 2017 Prime Minister's Award for Fiction.

Josephine is a Perth-based writer whose career began in the area of performance. Her early works included The Geography of Haunted Places, with Erin Hefferon, and Customs. Her first novel was Cusp, (UWA Publishing, 2005). Josephine has taught at Murdoch, the University of Western Australia, and Curtin University.

Anne-Louise Willoughby: Anne-Louise's is a creative writer who has worked in print media and written a novel. She has a predilection for expansive context and detailed story-telling, and hold a PhD.

The PhD produced a publishable manuscript, many memorable semesters as a lecturer and tutor, and enough late nights to warrant a bulb of garlic hanging on the study door. Anne-Louise continues to teach at UWA with a particular interest in memoir and biography.
